WHAT HAPPENS IF I DON'T HAVE MY FURNITURE REPAIRED?

Leaving furniture damage untreated can quickly turn small issues into big ones, shortening the life of your furniture. Snags can become irreparable, and stains left too long may settle permanently into fabrics. Spills that aren't professionally handled can even lead to bacteria, mould, or unpleasant odours, causing hidden damage to cushions and upholstery. Plus, any structural damage that's not repaired may get worse over time, meaning you miss out on the premium comfort you paid for.

WHY CHOOSE A PROTECTION PLAN?

-  Save on repair costs with a plan that covers eligible stains and damage
-  Helps your furniture last longer, which is better for the environment than replacing it
-  Immediate coverage from the day of delivery
-  One upfront payment = 5 years of worry-free protection

HOW MUCH COULD REPAIRS COST?

The cost of repairing damaged furniture can vary. On average, a single repair may range from £75 to £700+, depending on the issue and the type of furniture. Without a protection plan, you would be responsible for covering these expenses yourself. It's important to review the terms and conditions to understand what is covered and any exclusions or limitations of the protection plan.
